Governor Gregoire Announces Plan to Enhance Community Protection, Safety of Officers

Governor Chris Gregoire today outlined a series of proposals to increase the safety of communities, as well as the law enforcement officers that protect them.

"In recent months, I have personally met too many grieving law enforcement families, who through the violence of a stranger have lost a mother, a father, a spouse, a son, a daughter," Gregoire said. "I pledged I would support them, and all our men and women in uniform."

Gregoire said she is proposing to add a new option in the state's justice system: guilty and mentally ill. This option would allow courts to find a person guilty of a crime and sentence them to prison, instead of a state psychiatric hospital.

"The rights of dangerous mentally ill offenders can't trump the safety of our families," Gregoire said. "If an offender is guilty and mentally ill, they will be guaranteed appropriate treatment inside our prison system."

Gregoire added that for those people who have been found not guilty by reason of insanity, and therefore have not been convicted of a crime, she is proposing they face a newly created Safety Review Panel, which will consider the release with "an eye toward protecting our community."

Gregoire also announced she plans to ask the Legislature to amend the constitution, and provide judges the discretion to deny bail where public safety is at risk.

"We would like to thank the Governor for once again reaching out to and listening to and supporting the recommendations of the law enforcement community," said Don Pierce, executive director of the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs. "We believe these recommendations increase public safety in a thoughtful way. However, we must realize that we do not live in a failsafe society and we will not be able to prevent all tragedies."

Additionally, Gregoire said she is:

-Directing the Department of Corrections to link to the State Victim Notification System to make certain the department is notified when an offender is released from jail.

Public Disclosure Hearings Next Week

by James McMahan, WACO Staff

Ramsey Ramerman, a well known attorney representing local governments on Open Public Records Act issues, has put forth 5 recommendations that several of our members have taken a particular interest in:

1. Add a “meet and confirm” provision to increase transparency through communication while decreasing unnecessary, costly litigation
2. Reform the penalty provisions to ensure penalties serve as a deterrent, not a windfall
3. Implement a provision to reduce the taxpayer subsidy for search time by charging requesters under some circumstances, which will reduce harassing requesters without affecting access for most of the public
4. Create a Public Records Officer Association and standardized training to capitalize on existing resources and standardize procedures.
5. Create a Public Records Agency to resolve PRA disputes without involving courts.

Some of these recommendations have been realized in actual legislation this year:

HB 2582/SB 6367 - Allowing agencies to direct requesters to their web site for public records.

HB 2583/SB 6368 - Concerning conferences prior to filing actions alleging a public records request violation.

SB 6408 - Changing remedies for actions under the public records act.

HB 2736/SB 6383 - Establishing the office of open records.

The Senate Government Operations & Elections Committee is holding a hearing on three of the four bills mentioned above on Tuesday, Jan 19 at 1:30 PM.

The House will be hearing one of these bills on Tuesday, Jan 19 at 1:30 PM and another on Friday, Jan 22 at 1:30.

We expect that our local government association partners will be strong supporters of these bills next week. If you are interested in attending the hearing, please coordinate with the WACO office.

There are no scheduled public hearings on HB 2736/SB 6383 or SB 6408.

NACo-Nationwide Scholarship Open now to High School Seniors

This spring, four high school seniors will earn $2,000 for college from the NACo-Nationwide Scholarship. Winning applicants will have written a short essay describing why it's important for a public-sector employee to start saving early for retirement.

This is the fifth consecutive year that Nationwide and NACo have teamed up to encourage high-school seniors to think about retirement.

Why spur students who haven't even started full-time work to think about retirement? Three reasons — by applying for the scholarship the students:

1. must consider the financial impact of their decisions about college and their career, and realize it is never too soon to start thinking about saving for retirement
2. begin to recognize the value perspective in turbulent financial times when difficult decisions often are required, and
3. identify specific actions that help prepare for a financially successful future.

To be eligible, applicants must be graduating high school seniors who are legal U.S. residents and their parent or grandparent must be enrolled in and contributing to the NACo 457 Deferred Compensation Plan. In addition, the student must enroll in a full-time undergraduate course of study no later than the fall term of the 2010–2011 school year at an accredited two- or four-year college.

In addition to these qualifications, applicants will also be asked to answer a question (in 500 words or fewer) on why it is important for a public-sector employee to start early when saving for retirement.

The application and entry must be submitted online no later than Jan. 31, 2010.

The NACo-Nationwide Scholarship is just one of the services arising out of a 30-year relationship between Nationwide and the National Association of Counties. As provider of the NACo deferred compensation program, Nationwide regularly reports to the NACo Deferred Compensation Advisory Committee on industry trends, updates statistics on the program and provides ongoing education on retirement issues.

NACo receives payment from Nationwide Retirement Solutions for NACo's endorsement and license of its name and logo for use by Nationwide in connection with the NACo Deferred Compensation Plan, and related products and services. These funds are used by NACo to enhance programs and services for the benefit of its members. For more information, go to www.nrsforu.com/scholarship.

CORRECTION: In the last edition of the Courthouse Journal, we printed the list of new WACO Committees for 2010. There is a correction to the WACO Legislative Committee; the Legislative Chair for the Coroners/Medical Examiners is Tim Davidson, Cowlitz County Coroner. Gary Warnock, Thurston County Coroner was incorrectly listed as Chair.

Courts, Public Safety, Law & Justice

Of interest to Coroners and Medical Examiners

SB 6277, disposition of human remains, the right to control determine disposition is relinquished and passed on if the one in control is accused of murder or manslaughter of the decedent. SB 6394, says a person may appoint someone to control disposition of their remains and that appointment supersedes the right of spouse, children, etc. Both are set for hearing in Senate Judiciary Committee on Tuesday, January 19, at 10:00 a.m.

On Wednesday, January 20, at 1:30 p.m. the House Committee on Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness will hear HB 2389, an act relating to forensic investigations, and HB 2426, an act relating to vulnerable adults. HB 2389 is a revised version of a bill Representative Jim Moeller proposed in the interim. It would make the Forensic Investigations Council responsible for recommending minimum standards for autopsy facilities and would add another medical examiner to the Forensic Investigations Council. The county coroners and medical examiners were involved in the interim discussion and have no objections to the current form of the bill.

HB 2426 requires mandatory reporters to notify the county coroner or medical examiner of any suspected abuse of vulnerable adults.

More Forensic Investigations Council

HB 2389 wants to add a second medical examiner to the Forensic Investigations Council while SB 6340/HB 2767 would add a member of the defense bar and a scientist. No hearing has been set on SB 6340 or its companion but HB 2389 is up next week.

The last bill of interest is still in draft form. Z 0780.6 deals with fatality reviews of child welfare deaths, and will be heard on Thursday, January 21, at 3:30 p.m. in Senate Human Services and Corrections.

Federal Judges: Washington Felony Inmates Should Get Vote

From the Seattle Times, 01/05/2010

A federal appeals court has ruled that imprisoned felons should be allowed to vote in Washington to ensure that racial minorities are protected under the Voting Rights Act.

Tuesday's 2-1 ruling by a three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned the 2000 ruling of a district judge in Spokane. That judge had ruled that state law did not violate the act, and dismissed a lawsuit filed by a former prison inmate from Bellevue.

The two appellate judges ruled that disparities in the state's justice system "cannot be explained in race-neutral ways."

A spokeswoman says state Attorney General Rob McKenna is weighing the state's next step.

Energy Efficient Appliance Procurement Assistance Available for Counties

by Jim Borthen, U.S. EPA Region 10 Energy Star Coordinator

The Energy Star program (which is jointly run by the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Energy) has a major role in evaluating appliances and awarding Energy Star labels to those that meet stringent criteria for energy efficiency. I can say, with a high level of confidence, that a great deal of effort is expended by the program to ensure that the award of the Energy Star label truly means something.

What it means is that the labeled product has a high level of energy efficiency, and that it is more efficient than the majority of same type appliances.

The products available with Energy Star ratings include: desktop computers, monitors, computer servers, gaming consoles, food preparation equipment, notebooks and tablets, copiers, fax machines, mailing machines, printers, scanners, and water coolers. And that is just the office equipment.

For the home there are: clothes washers, dehumidifiers, dishwashers, furnaces, water heaters, freezers, heat pumps, lighting, and many other energy efficient products. The following web site contains a more detailed list.

http://www.energystar.gov/index.cfm?fuseaction=find_a_product

But the Energy Star people not only tell you which products are certified to be more energy efficient, they are willing to assist you in your procurement efforts. Samples of procurement language, which you can use in your solicitations, are available for most of the Energy Star rated equipment. Just go to EnergyStar.gov and do a search on "Sample Procurement Language" and look in the search results for an item that includes the equipment of interest.

Also, Energy Star has on line web based training sessions, and downloadable documents to assist in the procurement effort. Go to the following web site and peruse:

http://www.energystar.gov/index.cfm?c=business.bus_internet_presentations

Safe Routes to School Grant Program Seeks County Submittals

WSDOT recently issued a "call for projects" for its Safe Routes to School program. The goals of the Safe Routes to School grants are to increase the number of children walking and biking to school where it is safe, and if it's not safe, work to make it safer. The program supports pedestrian and bicycle safety projects such as walking to school buses, sidewalks, bike lanes, ped safety education, bicycle safety skills classes, crossing guards, speed feedback signs and traffic safety cameras. The program itself was created to provide children a safe, healthy alternative to riding the bus or being driven to school.

Eligible Safe Routes projects are those within two-miles of primary and middle schools (grades K-8), and that address engineering solutions, educational and encouragement programs, and law enforcement efforts. Review criteria for the applications are also based on project readiness and need or potential impact.

More detailed information about the grant program and the application process is available on WSDOT's website at www.wsdot.wa.gov/LocalPrograms/SafeRoutes/CallForProjects. Applications for Safe Routes to School project grants are due to WSDOT on May 3, 2010.

To learn more about the program, a Safe Routes to School Overview Webinar has been scheduled for February 1st from 1:00 to 3:00. To register go to: <https://www1.gotomeeting.com/register/218536304>. For more information, or if you do not have the capacity to participate on a webinar, please contact Charlotte Claybrooke at 360-705-7302.

County Treasurer Won't Finish Term

Thurston County Treasurer Robin Hunt has accepted a new job and will not finish her term, which ends in December 2010.

Her announcement Wednesday appears to boost Olympia City Councilman Joe Hyer's chances of landing the job, at least on an interim basis.

Hunt, 55, earlier had said she would not run for a fourth four-year term. She said Wednesday that she had planned to retire, then learned of the job opportunity through contacts at the state, her former employer.

Hunt didn't say when her last day will be, but she expects it will be about March 1. Electronic Transaction Consultants of Richardson, Texas, hired her as the finance manager for its tolling operations in Washington.

Her announcement comes the same day the Washington State Department of Transportation said it had signed a contract with the company to establish and operate a new statewide customer-service center for toll operations. The company will provide customer service for the Good to Go! electronic tolling program in addition to payment processing, violation collections and business management. It will take over customer service for tolling on the Tacoma Narrows Bridge, State Route 167 high-occupancy toll lanes and, beginning in spring 2011, the State Route 520 floating bridge.

"This is a very exciting opportunity to be part of a new and growing process in transportation management," Hunt wrote in the letter she sent to the county commissioners announcing her pending resignation. "I am lucky to be able to do what I most enjoy – working at the intersection of public service and private enterprise providing strong accounting system design and implementation."

The five-year contract, valued at about $23 million, was signed Dec. 23. ETC was selected from among five bidders, according to WSDOT. The contract begins Jan. 11. ETC's systems collect about one-third of all toll transactions in the United States, it said.

Hunt's primary job as county treasurer is to receive, hold and distribute money owed to county government. The post is a partisan position; Hunt is a Democrat.

Hyer, a local businessman who won re-election to his council seat in November, confirmed last week that he would run for Hunt's post next year. There is no legal restriction for Hyer to hold the two elected offices at the same time.

The state constitution outlines the process to appoint the person to complete Hunt's term. Thurston County commissioners would appoint one of three nominees whose names are forwarded by the Thurston County Democrats. A party representative was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

The general election in November would determine who holds the office starting in 2011.

Hyer is the treasurer for the Thurston County Democrats. He also has been deeply involved with the city's budgeting process serving on the City Council and has been the chairman of the city's Finance Committee since 2007.

Hunt said she met with Hyer several weeks ago after he had expressed interest in the job. She said she didn't tell Hyer that she might not complete her term. Hyer said he first learned of Hunt's intentions Wednesday afternoon.

Hyer said he would seek the appointment and acknowledged his party ties could give him a leg up in securing it. But he stressed that he has the credentials for the job and expressed hope that the party "is looking for the person with the right skill set."

In her letter to commissioners, Hunt recommended that they appoint Steve Larson, a senior manager in her office, if there is any delay between her resignation and the appointment of her temporary successor.

Hunt was appointed as county treasurer in January 1997 and elected to the post that fall.

She expected that the transition period would be smooth because "my current employees have strong skills in the treasury functions and work well as a team to both get the daily work done and resolve issues as they arise."

"Results from our internal customer satisfaction survey show that our customers want two things from Purchasing. First save us time in the procurement process and second save us money. When Kansas City, Missouri uses a U.S. Communities contract we save both time and money for our customers."

Ray Burnett,
Commissioner of Purchases and Supplies
Kansas City, MO.
